

Pizza Day Prague 2022 - Just Eat It!

Pizza Day Prague 2022 is a one-day international conference marking the 12th anniversary of the first real-world Bitcoin payment. The first edition, which takes place on Saturday, May 21, 2022, exactly a day before the anniversary of the legendary transaction, is subtitled "Just Eat It".

Pizza Day aims to return to Bitcoin's roots and original motivations as a tool for spreading crypto-anarchy; a way to preserve the digital freedom of individuals and groups. Pizza Day is celebration of financial independence and equal relationships without unsolicited third-party oversight. It is a celebration of the emancipation of individuals above the dictates of corporatist systems. Bitcoin is a global phenomenon and in the eight years of its existence, Paralelní Polis has won the sympathy of many leading names in the domestic and global crypto-scene, who regularly talk at its now traditional Hackers Congress Paralelní Polis.

Both Pizza Day Prague stages will be honored by the presence of Bitcoin's OGs like Amir Taaki, a developer, crypto-anarchist, and father of the BIP process; Sergej Kotliar, CEO and founder of Bitrefill, one of the most popular places for people to spend their Bitcoin; or Joerg Platzer, founder of the legendary Room 77 known for being the first private business to accept Bitcoin back in 2011.

Mário Havel, a hacker, and researcher focused on making the crypto-ecosystem more efficient and anonymous, and one of the organizers says:

"Pizza Day Conference aims to bridge the atmosphere of Bitcoin's early days to the present by creating an open space for discussion and inspiration without political or economic dogmas. Come to learn about using Bitcoin in your business or personal finances, the background of the cypherpunk and the current cryptoanarchy subculture, as well as to discuss sustainability, long-term effectiveness, and their limitations."
